IHI Conference 2026 • Part 2 – Red Shift + Gong • assigned to Norman Kuan

Independent Home Improvement Conf. (NHPA) • July 29–30, 2026 • JW Marriott Orlando, Grande Lakes • Booth 9

Source: Part 1 brief v1 (Jul 21, 2026) • HubSpot refreshed July 28, 2026 • v1

≈$207K corrected recoverable pipeline • 7 accounts • IHI Conference 2026, Jul 29–30

Part 1 stated ≈$142.8K – a $64,248 summation error on an already-listed deal, not new pipeline.

20 of 22 prep items resolved. 2 open: attendance unconfirmed for Family Hardware and KB Home Center, pending campaign reply.

ACCOUNT	$ AT STAKE	WHY LOST	RE-ENGAGE ANGLE	BLOCKER
Home Lumber & Supply	$90,636	Went unresponsive twice	Get their boss into the pricing conversation now	–
Gold Beach Lumber	$27,445	Fee/ROI questioned, no internal buy-in	Address ROI directly; help build their leadership pitch	–
Southern Tool Supply	$20,000	Went quiet	Ask for Brian Scott by name – newly identified, warmer than the CRM contact	–
Family Hardware	$24,000	Went quiet, weak fit	Lead with order-history / easy-reorder self-service	Attendance unconfirmed
Randy's Hardware	$25,000	Price ceiling ($500/mo)	Offer a lower, hardware-only tier	–
KB Home Center	$20,000	Payments-rail blocker (Adyen)	Hold – confirm the fix before re-pitching	Adyen/Turks & Caicos – status unknown
Handy Ace Hardware	$0 (never priced)	Unresponsive before pricing	Confirm Lisa Anderson is still there, then re-price	–

FLAG KB Home Center ($20K) was lost on a payments-rail blocker, not fit – Toolbx's own team looked into an Adyen fix for Turks & Caicos after the loss, but the outcome isn't confirmed. Check with finance before engaging at the booth; if unresolved, this account should move to Skip rather than stay in the priority order.

What you owe

Part 1 (CRM + pipeline) named you to complete Part 2 – Red Shift activity and Gong call notes – and deliver a consolidated brief two days before the show.

Seven accounts, 22 assigned items. This document tracks what HubSpot and Gong could already answer and what's still open.

CONSOLIDATED BRIEF DUE: OVERDUE July 27, 2026

Show opens July 29. 2 items still open – both attendance confirmations with no signal either way.

Closed-lost reasons (from HubSpot)

Pulled live from HubSpot on July 28, 2026. Picklist reason plus the closing rep's own note – the note is where the actual objection lives.

Corrections to Part 1

C1 Recoverable pipeline understated by $64,248

Part 1 headlines ≈$142.8K. Summing the per-account figures Part 1 itself prints ($26,388 + $64,248 + $27,444.72 + $20,000 + $24,000 + $25,000 + $20,000 + $0) gives $207,080.72. The $64,248 Home Lumber deal (closed Jul 25, 2025) is counted in that account's card and its "~$90K" note, but excluded from every stated total – both stat cards and the manager takeaways. True recoverable ≈ $207.1K, not ≈$142.8K.

C2 The ownership gap is already closed

Part 1 shows five accounts as – assign, unowned. As of today HubSpot has all seven owned: Pouyan Mirsaedi (Home Lumber, Southern Tool, Randy's Hardware, Handy Ace Hardware) and Joshua Kolenda (Gold Beach Lumber, Family Hardware, KB Home Center). The exact assignment date isn't captured in the properties pulled here, but all five were unowned in Part 1's July 21 snapshot and are owned now – so the assignment happened sometime after that. "Close the ownership gap" is done – don't send Josh and Pouyan chasing a solved problem at the booth.

C3 KB Home Center's Adyen blocker was already under internal review — status unconfirmed

YOUR CALL

Southern Tool Supply, Family Hardware, and KB Home Center all carry a rep-applied "Not in ICP" reason. KB Home Center's is explicit: "not in ICP - Adyen no[t] supported in Turks & Caicos" – a payments-rail limitation, not a sales objection. Gong calls add a material update: after the loss, Colton told the account he'd sent inquiries to Toolbx's own finance team about Adyen support and payment processing specifically for Turks & Caicos, and committed to share KB Home Center's account types and signatory needs with finance and product. That thread's outcome isn't in Gong – check with finance/product before the show whether Adyen coverage was actually extended. If yes, this account moves back up the priority order; if no, it's still a hard blocker and belongs in Skip alongside Mountain Mojo. Either way, this is a decision for the sales manager, not made here.

C4 Southern Tool isn't as thin as Part 1 suggests

Part 1 flags Southern Tool Supply as "thin" with only 1 CRM contact. A single Gong call surfaces at least one more named stakeholder – Brian Scott, actively exploring ERP alternatives to Epicor and familiar with Epicor's own Propello system – plus an unnamed AR/AP bookkeeping contact who confirmed interest in the payment portal, and an unspecified "powers that be" final-decision group. Add Brian Scott to CRM before the show; he's a warmer, more informed entry point than the single existing contact – though this rests on one call, not a confirmed relationship.

Per-account workload

1. Home Lumber & Supply Co. – Meade, KS CLOSED LOST x2 • RE-ENGAGE

Say: We know timing and pricing sign-off killed this last time – let's get your decision-maker in the room now.

Ask: Did the meeting with Matt ever happen after Jameson's invite?

Watch for: Pushback on ERP-reintegration risk and multi-store payment consolidation – both came up repeatedly on past calls.

LAST ACTIVITY	Jun 11, 2026	LOST DEALS	$26,388 (Oct 2025) + $64,248 (Jul 2025)	DEAL OWNER	Jameson Labuguen

RESOLVED FROM HUBSPOT

Both 2025 lost reasons. $64,248 (Jul 25, 2025) – Lost communication / Unresponsive, rep note "unresponsive." $26,388 (Oct 17, 2025) – Not Ready, rep note "not the right time." Two different failure modes: the big one went dark, the small one was timing.

Whether the logged follow-up ever happened. Partially confirmed via Gong: Jameson sent a meeting invite to Matt, and Matt confirmed receiving it. No subsequent call is on record, so whether the meeting itself actually took place is still unconfirmed – the follow-up action happened, the follow-up outcome didn't get captured.

Gong notes across the 6 contacts. 5 calls found (Jan 2025–Jul 2026). Interest centered on the AR and payment portal, e-commerce, payment consolidation, increasing payment adoption, and reducing credit card fees. Objections raised: timing, needing to loop in the boss on pricing, risk of reintegration work if they switch ERPs, uncertainty about monthly cost increases after the initial term, inability to consolidate multiple customer accounts across stores, payment reconciliation friction, credit card fee cost, and customer adoption risk for new technology.

2. Gold Beach Lumber – Brookings, OR

CLOSED LOST • RE-ENGAGE

Say: Here's the real ROI math on ACH, and we can help you build the case for your leadership.

Ask: Did you ever get in front of leadership with this, or is that still the blocker?

Watch for: Concern about conflicting with their existing Do It Best e-commerce site – have an answer ready on special-order handling.

LIFECYCLE	Re-engage	CRM OWNER	Joshua Kolenda	CONTACTS	9 in CRM (deepest)
LAST ACTIVITY	May 8, 2026	LOST DEAL	$27,444.72 – lost May 7, 2026 (freshest)	DEAL OWNER	Scott Hamilton

RESOLVED FROM HUBSPOT

The May-2026 lost reason. Not Ready; Other; Lack of prioritization. Scott's own note: "Pursuing other large IT projects and cannot put resources to this just now."

What changed their mind. Not pure capacity after all – Gong adds real texture (see 2c). Jason Fritz called the monthly fee "a little large," especially for the rental side, and Andrea Evans questioned ACH ROI given they don't have a collections problem. Both flagged "someone else to convince" internally, with a leadership presentation as a likely blocker. The lost-reason note's "pursuing other IT projects" was real, but a price/ROI question and an unresolved internal buy-in step were sitting underneath it – worth addressing both, not just timing, in the re-open.

Gong history with the 9 contacts. 2 calls found. Jason Fritz and Andrea Evans were the primary voices. Objections: monthly fee felt large for the rental side; ACH ROI questioned without a collections problem to solve; internal permissions concerns; potential conflict between Toolbx and their existing "Do It Best" e-commerce site, specifically how special-order items not in Epicor would be handled; questions on integration time and pricing tiers across stores. Both contacts named a leadership presentation as the remaining internal hurdle.

3. Southern Tool Supply – Louisville, KY

CLOSED LOST • RE-ENGAGE

Say: Ask for Brian Scott specifically – he's already exploring ERP alternatives to Epicor.
Ask: Did the follow-up meeting after the demo-site login happen?
Watch for: There's also an AR/AP bookkeeper interested in the payment portal and an unnamed 'powers that be' group with final say – don't stop at one contact.

LAST ACTIVITY	Jul 2, 2026 (most recent)	LOST DEAL	$20,000 – lost Oct 2025	DEAL OWNER	Colton Cranston

RESOLVED FROM HUBSPOT

The Oct-2025 lost reason. Lost communication / Unresponsive; Lack of prioritization; Not in ICP. Colton's note: "went quiet." Also carries a rep-applied "Not in ICP" flag – see correction C3.

The Jul-2 touch outcome. Colton sent Brian Scott a link and login credentials to the customer-facing demo site for his team to explore, and the two planned to coordinate a follow-up meeting the following week. Positive, concrete next step – worth checking whether that follow-up meeting actually happened before the show.

Who else to add beyond the single contact. Gong surfaces real names CRM doesn't have. Brian Scott is actively exploring ERP alternatives to Epicor. There's also an unnamed AR/AP bookkeeping contact who confirmed customer interest in a payment portal, and an unspecified "powers that be" group holding final say. See correction C4 and the CRM hygiene action to add Brian Scott.

Gong notes. 1 call found. Colton walked through their current manual AR/collections process, then demoed the Toolbx customer portal (online payments, invoice visibility, order tracking) and the admin side (aged AR dashboard, automated payment requests). Brian Scott shared his experience with Epicor's Propello system and interest in alternatives.

4. Family Hardware – Cape Coral, FL

CLOSED LOST • RE-ENGAGE

Say: We can give your customers order history and one-click reordering – no custom build required.

Ask: Are you here at IHI this year?

Watch for: Attendance is unconfirmed – no signal either way. Confirm before assuming they're in the room.

LAST ACTIVITY	Jun 8, 2026	LOST DEAL	$24,000 – lost Oct 2025	DEAL OWNER	Colton Cranston

RESOLVED FROM HUBSPOT

The Oct-2025 lost reason. Lack of prioritization; Lost communication / Unresponsive; Not in ICP. Colton's note: "went quiet (not good ICP)." Also carries a rep-applied "Not in ICP" flag – see correction C3.

Gong notes. 1 call found. Jeremy Peterson (Owner) wants a B2B solution that lets customers view order history and easily repeat past orders. Colton noted Family Hardware currently runs on custom internal systems. No IHI interest surfaced – Jeremy asked about Toolbx's presence at a different show ("the best market"), which Colton confirmed Toolbx would attend.

STILL TO ADD (RED SHIFT + GONG)

Confirm attendance via campaign reply [Campaign engagement – checked full Gong history and the Jun-Jul 2026 window specifically: zero mentions of IHI, NHPA, or trade-show plans. Absence of a signal isn't evidence of non-attendance; the campaign reply is still the real answer.]

5. Randy's Hardware – Broadway, VA

CLOSED LOST • RE-ENGAGE

Say: We hear you on price – let's talk about a lower, hardware-only tier that fits under $500/mo.

Ask: Has anything changed on budget since last fall?

Watch for: Clean price objection, not a fit problem – don't over-pitch features, lead with the number.

LIFECYCLE	Re-engage	CRM OWNER	Pouyan Mirsaedi	CONTACTS	2 in CRM
LAST ACTIVITY	Mar 5, 2026	LOST DEAL	$25,000 – lost Oct 2025	DEAL OWNER	Colton Cranston

RESOLVED FROM HUBSPOT

The Oct-2025 lost reason. ROI - Price sensitivity. Colton's note: "hardware only - cant afford more that $500/mo." A clean price-ceiling objection, not a fit or communication problem – worth a repositioned, lower-tier offer.

Merge/confirm the duplicate record. Confirmed duplicate: "Randy's Do it Best Hardware" (Timberville, VA • company 50279900086) is an empty shell – lifecycle "lead," 0 contacts, 0 deals. Safe to merge into this record (37086608223). See CRM hygiene action below.

Gong notes. 1 call found, and it's thin – Colton referenced a dinner conversation with Christian Herrick about replacing some of what Christian's mother-in-law currently handles as she phases herself out. No product-fit or objection detail surfaced. Consistent with this being a light-touch account; don't read more into it than what's here.

6. KB Home Center – Providenciales, Turks & Caicos

CLOSED LOST • RE-ENGAGE

Say: HOLD – confirm with finance/product whether Adyen now supports Turks & Caicos before restarting a pricing conversation here.
Ask: (If they're at the booth) a friendly hello only – do not re-pitch until the payments blocker is confirmed resolved.
Watch for: If unresolved, this account can't close regardless of the conversation. Don't over-invest booth time.

LIFECYCLE	Re-engage	CRM OWNER	Joshua Kolenda	CONTACTS	2 in CRM
LAST ACTIVITY	Aug 14, 2025 (coldest)	LOST DEAL	$20,000 – lost Aug 2025	DEAL OWNER	Colton Cranston

RESOLVED FROM HUBSPOT

The Aug-2025 lost reason. Not in ICP. Colton's note: "not in ICP - Adyen no[t] supported in Turks & Caicos." This is a payments-rail limitation, not an objection – see correction C3. Confirm whether Adyen coverage has changed before investing booth time here.

Gong notes if any. 1 call found – and it directly updates correction C3. Colton told the account he'd sent inquiries to Toolbx's own finance team about Adyen support and payment processing specifically for Turks & Caicos, and committed to share KB Home Center's account types and signatory needs with finance and product. That internal thread's outcome isn't in Gong – this confirms the blocker was flagged internally after the loss, not whether it was ever resolved. Check with finance/product before the show.

STILL TO ADD (RED SHIFT + GONG)

Confirm attendance [Campaign engagement – checked full Gong history and the Jun-Jul 2026 window specifically: zero mentions of IHI, NHPA, or trade-show plans. Absence of a signal isn't evidence of non-attendance.]

7. Handy Ace Hardware – Tucker, GA CLOSED LOST • RE-ENGAGE

Say: Let's pick up where we left off on the website project – is Lisa Anderson still the right person?

Ask: Confirm Lisa Anderson is still with the company before re-opening pricing.

Watch for: This deal never got priced last time – go in ready to actually scope it, not just re-introduce Toolbx.

LIFECYCLE	Re-engage	CRM OWNER	Pouyan Mirsaeidi	CONTACTS	1 in CRM (thin)
LAST ACTIVITY	Nov 3, 2025	LOST DEAL	No value recorded – lost Nov 2025	DEAL OWNER	Jameson Labuguen

RESOLVED FROM HUBSPOT

Why the deal carried no value. The `amount` field was never populated on this deal – confirmed live in HubSpot. Pricing was never scoped before the deal went cold; this isn't a data gap, it's the actual answer.

The Nov-2025 lost reason. Lost communication / Unresponsive. Jameson's note: "need to rebook." Consistent with 7a – the conversation stalled before pricing was ever discussed.

Whether the single contact is still the right one. 1 call found. Historically, yes – Lisa Anderson was clearly the engaged, decision-relevant contact: she confirmed definite interest in the project, discussed Toolbx's capabilities with the owner, and had a demo scheduled with Jameson. That confirms she was the right contact at the time, not that she still is today – last recorded activity is Nov 3, 2025, so a quick freshness check before the show is still worth doing.

CRM hygiene actions

ACTION	DETAIL
Merge duplicate	Randy's Do it Best Hardware (Timberville, VA • 50279900086) is an empty shell – lifecycle "lead", 0 contacts, 0 deals. Merge into Randy's Hardware (Broadway, VA • 37086608223).
Set missing deal amount	Handy Ace Hardware deal 41502765436 has no `amount` value – the source of Part 1's "no value recorded." Never scoped; rep note "need to rebook."
Review "Not in ICP" flags	Southern Tool Supply (41508801192), Family Hardware (41554348977), and KB Home Center (41508807767) all carry a rep-applied "Not in ICP" reason. KB Home Center's ties to an internal Adyen inquiry whose outcome is unconfirmed (see C3) – check with finance/product before deciding; the other two are worth a quick sanity check before investing booth time.
Add contacts found via Gong	Southern Tool Supply's Gong calls surface at least one more named stakeholder – Brian Scott (exploring ERP alternatives to Epicor) – plus an unnamed AR/AP bookkeeping contact who confirmed interest in the payment portal. Neither is in CRM; the account currently shows only 1 contact. Add Brian Scott before the show – he's a warmer entry point than the existing single contact. See correction C4.

Data notes & confidence

- Deal and company data pulled live from HubSpot on July 28, 2026 (portal 49044619).
- "Re-engage" is HubSpot custom lifecycle stage 1324949332 (Closed Lost – Re-engage), matching Part 1's usage.
- Closed-lost reasons combine the `closed_lost_reasons` picklist and the `closed_lost_detail__c` free-text field – the latter is the rep's own words and is quoted verbatim, including one source typo (bracketed: "no[t]").

- Gong call data was pulled directly via the Gong MCP connector (ask_account, Jan 2025–Jul 28 2026) for all 7 accounts – 12 calls found in total. The Sales Hub connector's get_deal_gong_calls tool was tried first and returned 401 Unauthorized (interactive sign-in required, unavailable in this session) – the direct Gong connector was used instead and succeeded.
- The two remaining open items (Family Hardware and KB Home Center attendance) were checked against the full Gong history and specifically against the Jun–Jul 2026 window – zero calls or emails mention IHI, NHPA, or trade-show attendance for either account. That absence is reported as a data point, not treated as confirmation of non-attendance; the pre-show campaign reply is still the real answer for both.
- Corrections in this document were found by recomputing Part 1's own stated totals from its own per-account figures, by diffing Part 1's ownership/lifecycle claims against live HubSpot data, and by cross-checking Gong call content against both Part 1's and HubSpot's account framing.
- Revenue / employee / branch figures from Part 1 were sourced from prior research and public sources there – treat as $\pm 50\%$, unchanged from Part 1's own caveat.
